

The Button

I can use and correctly punctuate direct speech.

1. Read through the story.

Work with a partner to identify and highlight the speech marks in the text.

WHAM-BAM-JELLY-AND-JAM!

Within a fraction of a second of the button being pressed, the world had turned into chocolate! At first this seemed like a gift from God for Mr Bonkers. He shouted, "Hallelujah!" Staring down in sheer amazement, he saw that a rather dull apple he had been eating had now turned into a rich, dark, large, scrummy Belgium chocolate! Without another thought for his already bulging waistline, he greedily gobbled it down.

"Wow, this is like heaven," exclaimed Mrs Bloom in delirious delight as she tasted an orange chocolate flower!

Mrs Floss was not as keen, "Your teeth will fall out!" she yelled at her two young children, Pippin and Zak, as they licked the trees, the pavement and everything in sight.

